Submitted to His Highness.

In July 1934, Rajakumar Man Singh, second son of the Raja Saheb of Banera, a Noble of Mewar, addressed a letter to His Highness requesting the grant of facilities for getting training in administrative work in this State. The Rajkumar was informed that we would be glad to give the necessary facilities.

He has now come here and I submit herewith for His Highness's gracious perusal a tentative programme of training drawn up for the gentleman. He is not a ruling chief nor a minor; he has besides already travelled considerably and been called to the Bar. He may not therefore need more than six months to acquaint himself with the work of the several departments.

May it please your Highness!

I have heard and read so much about the efficiency of Mysore administration under the regime of your Highness that I have been thinking of taking my preliminary lessons on administration there.

Principal F.S. Sell of your Highness College wrote a book entitled "Prince Bhim Singh (1925)" and dedicated it to your Highness. Bhim Singh was the founder of Banera Home. It is strange that a book on him has been written in Mysore and presented to your Highness. This made me further keen to come to Mysore. Though it is unfair yet I should give my brief is possible for me to receive administrative training in Mysore for a year or so? I am confident your Highness would oblige me with an early reply so that I may decide my future plans

introduction to your Highness before I make any request

I am the second son of Raja Jalil of Banera (Mewar). Banera was founded by Bhim Singh, elder son of Maharana Raj Singh, the hero of Rajputana during the seventeenth century. At the time of his father and in order to avoid bloodshed in Mewar he renounced the throne of Mewar in favour of his younger brother, Jai Singh later on he professed to the country Aurangzeb bestowed received Mansab of 5,000 horses, a Rich jagir and the status of first class Amir like Jhalas and Jadhavs. God's ways are peculiar. one of the descendants of Bhim was a minor the Mughal power was declining and the Maharattas were swaying over Rajputana so under these circumstance he lost all his State except the Paggana of Barwani in Nimar and Kolar in Malwa. Now Barwani is the premier State of Malwa with special privileges in Bhopal this the brief introduction of Barwani-Nama

After completing my College education in India I went to England with a wish to be called to the Bar, and I was called out the 13th June Besides my legal studies I have done a good deal of chamber practice with efficient barristers

I have been active by my friends and relations that I should practice at the High Court of Allahabad. But I should better serve Udaipur State and give benefit of my education.

Principal Sell met me in London and strongly advised me to go to Mysore. May I therefore request your Highness to let me know

Dear Sir Mirza Ismail

Two days ago I met the bearer of this note of introduction for the first time and was very favourably impressed by him. The circumstances of our meeting were odd enough. You may remember that in 1925 I wrote a book called Bhim Singh. published by Macmillans an historical romance to which I was led by sheer chance. My hero proves to have been the direct lineal ancestor of this young man Rajkumar Man Singh of Banera Mewar anxious to gain an insight into public administration, though, I understand, being the second son, his services would not necessarily be lost to his own State but to that of Udaipur.

I advised him to travel South & visit Mysore on his return from London and promised him this introductory note to you.

From what I have learnt about his [illegible] studious quiet life in London [illegible] well conducted. He is determined to lead an [illegible] life. I hope you may find it possible to show him the administrative ropes. Little did I dream when I lighted upon the story of his ancestor Rhein - founder of his dynasty, that I should ever meet any descendant of his & what is more be in a position to do such a one a good turn. But so it is.

Believe me

Yours very sincerely

Frank Rsell

The Rajkumar was then in the Chiefs College Ajmere & his tutor, on reading the book, wrote to me & gave me further information and some photographs, which sent by the Rajkumar & his father the Rajasahib of Banera. Since then I have been in correspondence with Mr. R.S. Deasmukh the tutor.

The Rajkumar has just been called to the Bar at Lincoln's Inn & the tutor joined him for some part of his stay in London. Thus we arranged a meeting in London.

The Rajkumar seems to be a sober minded fellow anxious to do good public service to his people - above all, he is
